

Are You Sure You're Insured?

The scope of cover under a Property Policy can change once that property becomes unoccupied. This is true for retail, industrial or domestic property policies.

All insurers will either request substantial additional premium or impose an entirely different set of conditions should a property become unoccupied – or both! Crucially, should they not be informed of the material fact that the property has become vacant, they may exercise their right to reject a claim.

Do not allow this to happen to you!

O'Leary Insurances can ensure that an unoccupied property need not be an uninsured property.

O'Leary Insurances have arranged an exclusive insurance scheme in order to tackle the needs of owners of properties which are currently unoccupied.

Cover under this scheme can be arranged through the O'Leary Insurances network, who will provide a prompt quotation on application.

With minimum premiums starting from as little as €500, the O'Leary Insurances Unoccupied Property Scheme offers you the peace of mind that you need in the current times.
